

ENGLAND WELCOMES AMERICA'S HELP IN IRISH SITUATION

 presence with Lord French the Irish viceroy, on present conditions in Ireland.
 He said that, though after twenty-five years of successful political life, he has been chosen by Premier Lloyd George to shoulder the heaviest ministerial burden within the British Empire, he was not afraid of bearing his reputation in the tragic precincts of the secretarial lodge in Phoenix Park. On the contary, he declared, he faces all the difficulties with complete confidence and courage.

 "I have heard nothing whatever," he said, "of the viceroy's reported resignation or retirement."
 Invited to define his proposed policy in Ireland, Sir Hamar said:

PAYOR IN HOME RULE BILL.
 "The Irish problem is 800 years old and cannot be settled in a few months. Today it is in a most depressing state. The Home Rule bill is the only hope for a settlement. It has behind it, I believe, a larger number of Irishmen than any one similar measure. Certainly a larger number of people in the British Isles and in the overseas parts of Britain support this measure than in the case of the Gladstonian and Asquith bills."

"I appeal to Irishmen in America and throughout the world to give the bill a chance. The Irish question will never be settled by violent measures.
 "There are forty million Scotch-Irish Britons who stand always for fair play. They do not like murder, they can be made indignant, but never can they be intimidated or deceived from what is right by the eviling of innocent policemen and soldiers."

ABOLISHES SINN FEIN.
 "No member of the government believes that the intellectual brand and the prominent leadership of the Sinn Fein are responsible for the atrocious Irish crimes. No man in Ireland who obeys the law is ever interfered with by the government. There is no desire on my part or on the part of the government to act oppressively in Ireland any more than in England, Scotland, or Wales.

 "I desire to bring peace in Ireland and Home Rule on democratic lines. All my life I have stood for democratic government, and I approach this problem free from all party and religious prejudices.
 "My lifelong advocacy of Home Rule is part of my equipment in dealing with the situation."
 In answer to questions, Sir Hamar said:
 "The government's attitude is receptive and conciliatory towards any one who comes forward openly with fair and practicable proposals, but there can be no question of condoning murder."
WELCOMES AMERICAN OPINION.
 "Our first duty is to protect the law-abiding citizens. The government welcomes criticism of the Home Rule bill from Ireland, America and elsewhere and will consider any reasonable amendments."
 The Wyndham act of 1903 granting the farmers facilities for land purchase, made Ireland one of the most progressive countries in the world. It is little known that two-thirds of the farmers of Ireland are free holders, a condition unequalled in any other country.
 "During the years that the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland regarded the crime wave 'with the utmost horror,' Sir Hamar emphasized he took his office in a spirit of absolute religious tolerance.
 Like Sir Auckland Geddes, who is one of his personal friends, the new secretary stands pre-eminent as a member of the new school of British statesmen. He expressed warm appreciation for the cordial welcome tendered by the American press."

MURDERERS GOT WRONG

Police Believe That Eklund's Brother, Known to Carry Money, Was Intended Victim

 before reaching their destination, and were so engrossed that they failed to notice the frightened driver taking them back to Plymouth until the machine arrived about 3 p. m.

The driver, who notified the police of what had happened, said he overheard the assassin declare that he intended to return to his home in a taxi later in the day. The two local men, one said to be a bartender, corroborated the driver's story.

Eugene Rush and Anthony Reding, first drivers, who were questioned by the alleged slayers of Eklund at the Union station, told the police they could easily identify the two men on sight.

The police believe that the men mistook Oliver Eklund for his brother, Eklund, who was the owner of two machines, was accustomed to carrying large sums of money, and was known to the assassin. The fact that this fact was communicated to the men who plotted to engage him and rob him of his money and car at the station.

This theory was borne out in some extent by the discovery that on the day after the murder two men questioned a number of taxi drivers as to whether or not they owned the cars they drove. An additional supporting feature they claimed was the fact that Eugene Eklund was originally engaged to drive the men to Taunton, the home of the gangster known to the police. Later, the destination was changed to Boston, and the sum agreed on raised from $5 to $15.
 The police theory now is that the men struck Eklund on the head with a blackjack or slungshot at Wadsworth corner, Revere, where the stalled machine, with the wounded man inside, was seen by Conductor DeBono and Motorman Ireland at 8 p. m. Sunday night.

NURSE ON STAND IN HOSPITAL DEATH CASE

2:32 p. m., when I was going about my duties. At that time I changed the water in both tubs, went upstairs to see what time it was and found that the clock had stopped in Mrs. Norton's room.
 "Returning to where Mrs. Lotz was I found Mrs. Norton gasping, and went to her assistance, and from there went to Mrs. Lotz's room. I found her gasping for breath.
 "I ran to the mixing plant and looked at the thermometer and could not tell what it registered, except that it was very high.
 "Mrs. Lotz tub I tried to pull the plug out to release the water.
 "I saw that Mrs. Lotz was dead and turned down the light. Next I ran up three flights of stairs for help. In my excitement I threw off a jacket containing my keys.
 "Next I ran downstairs and found the door locked. I searched for my keys and knowing I lost them in my pocket, ran back to get them. I was awfully excited. I got the keys, opened the door below and reported the matter to Superintendent Spaulding.
 "At different times I found there was much trouble with the hot and cold water arrangements in the run in which Mrs. Lotz died and I reported the matter to the officials."

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

Here's how we lowered the cost of living a million or so dollars in 1919 - - - - -

BY ACTUAL count of sales slips there were 3,257,000 purchases of clothes representing a million or so customers in the Filene Basement during 1919. Isn't it fair to suppose that at least a dollar a person was saved? This great achievement is typical of the success of this unique store.

About 40,000 people walk through the Filene Basement and Annex on the average Saturday. In seven years (1912 to 1919) our volume of business increased several times with practically no additional floor space, no fancy fixtures, only a small increase in number of salespeople and no increase in rent.

During these same seven years, people paid cash, carried their own packages home or paid extra for deliveries, walked down stairs instead of riding in elevators, and practically waited upon themselves, thereby reducing additional selling costs to the very minimum.

Every day in the year 46 Filene Basement Buyers and Assistants are searching the markets and buying dependable goods underpriced. Buying goods from retail stores that have closed, business failures, makers' overstocks, samples, seconds, etc., and no lot is too big or too small if the price is right.

Their only buying instructions from us are that the goods must be dependable and under regular prices no matter how low or high the price. When the goods arrive here expert shoppers compare them with other store values. If our buyers have not bought well, and it happens occasionally, we sell below cost.

Is it any wonder, in view of the above, that this store is able to contribute so much toward lowering the cost of living?

It was the original idea of the head of this business that the Filene Basement should lower the cost of living. To cut the cost of clothes has always been the rock bottom fundamental of the Filene Basement since the first ring of a cash register down to this minute. How well we have succeeded, the above facts and figures answer. Are you acquainted?

Here's what we mean by lowering the cost of living—definite examples of the hundreds of bargains chosen at random, on sale Thursday:

United States Marine Corps School Has "Earn While You Learn" Courses

Marine Corps young men enrolling in the Marine Corps will not only learn to be soldiers, but, if they wish, they may earn a regular salary to school. After one, two, three or more years the Marine Corps graduate as an expert automobile mechanic, chauffeur, electrician, or what not. Not only that, but the United States Government pays for its education. Its tremendous influence with employers is so satisfactory that it places the U. S. Marine Corps graduate in a well-paying job.

The young man who is facing the hard problem of making a living while attending the war through high school, college or trade school should welcome the opportunity afforded by the Marine Corps Institute. By this plan he is not only enabled to gain the education he desires, but at the same time—

Lead a healthy, body-building outdoor life, register free board, clothing, laundry and medical attendance—thus taking his pay for "board money" or for a snug sleeping account.

To the average "red-blooded" young American, the Marine Corps with its adventurous, carefree life, and its opportunity for travel by land and sea, at home and abroad, has always proved particularly attractive. When to these are added a chance of a good education—

Well, it makes a long apprenticeship at a trade, or weary hours at a night school, look rather unattractive by comparison.

The Marine Institute, which does all to become as famous as the Naval Academy at Annapolis, or the Military Academy at West Point, is already well under way at the Marine post at Quantico, Virginia.

Hundreds of young men are enrolled in courses that range from reading, writing and simple arithmetic to such subjects as higher mathematics and journalism.

If a man comes into the Marine Corps hardly able to sign his name, he can pass a grammar school examination and continue to learn the limit of his ability and the length of his enlistment. Among the branches and advanced English, mathematics, in practically all its branches, French, Spanish, stenography and clerical work, automobile mechanics, horsemanship and care of horses in definite and

Americanization Pioneer Tells Believes France Will Consent to German Army of More Than 100,000

"The Summer's Program for Outdoor Story Telling" was discussed by the Department of Education of the University of California Extension Department, at a conference held in the Public Library Lecture Hall, Miss Stella W. Jones of the University Extension Department, planner of outdoor story telling in Bridgeport, Ct., outlined the work as it started there.

"We have a great Americanization problem in Bridgeport," said she, "because of the city's population of 125,000 and over 30 per cent foreign born. It was highly necessary that we should have a plan of action. We should all become good Americans."

"It was our task to use what we had for Americanization. We chose story telling, and utilized our high school girls as story tellers. We dressed them as apprentices, and sent them where the people were, out of doors, on the sidewalks. We even sent our girls to the homes of the people. We called it 'Hearts Kitchen.' It was not a particularly savory plan. But they were welcomed. A gentleman always stood near the girls, and they were always the center of attention. The service was told, and became an interesting part of the children's lives."

Under the auspices of the Community Service, the Department of Education and the Women's Municipal League, Boston will have story tellers, during the twilight, also, in her streets.

health, forestry, mechanical and home economy, carpentry, electrical mechanics, plumbing, blacksmithing, house painting, hand mowing, dairy life, journalism, cooking and baking, etc.

The instructors are not only competent teachers, but eminently practical men, and are given their preference regardless of their race in the Marine Corps. For example, the teacher of Spanish is a foreign university, and a former public school teacher. Many of the trade schools are in charge of instructors who are graduates of Annapolis, Massachusetts, Stevens Institute, Colorado School of Mines, and other institutions. Others have received their training in such great industrial corporations as the General Electric Company, the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and so on.

All graduates enrolled in the Marine Institute receive their instruction on an average of three hours for five afternoons each week, all purely military training being confined to the morning hours. The evenings may be devoted to study, reading or other various camp recreations, such as the free movie shows or the pool tables.

We have a great deal about "College Life" but it is extremely doubtful if any of our institutions of learning afford more opportunity for pleasant companionship with real good fellows than does the Marine Corps. For this branch of service attracts the sort of a man who has the makings of a "good fellow." Few colleges can offer any better facilities for baseball, football, boxing, swimming and other athletic sports than under the direction of competent trainers and coaches. And no school, unless it is a military institution of the first rank, can approach the Marine Corps in offering a man that self-reliance, shrewdness and qualities of leadership which military training affords.

If you are even slightly interested in the Marine Corps, or a Marine Recruiting Office. You will find it very interesting. We will tell the truth, and nothing but the truth, about the service. Send for our literature.

LEAGUE OPPONENTS SWEEP BAY STATE PRIMARIES

Walsh Ticket Wins Democratic Voters; Lodge Indorsed by G. O. P.

Thirty-one of the thirty-five delegates to the Democratic National Convention were elected on a platform in opposition to the Wilson League of Nations. The so-called "Pro" ticket, headed by Governor Leonard Wood, suffered an overwhelming defeat in the Bay State, the thirty-five delegates in the State which he carried as his home, and the other states where he had offered himself as a candidate.

McCALL IN SIXTH PLACE.
Former Governor Samuel W. McCall, running as the only pledged League delegate, finished sixth in a field of eight, sustaining the first substantial defeat at the hands of the people in his long public career, and Prohibition, Puller and Russell A. Gould, the three Wood-backed delegates, ran in the fifth, seventh and eighth places, the League's campaign reaching the bottom of the pile.

Senator David I. Walsh, knighted in the Bay State Democratic, offering himself to the people on the record at Washington in opposition to the Wilson League, headed his own ticket with a lead of over 2000 votes.

Voters in First Reject Ely.
Former District Attorney Joseph H. Ely of Westfield, the administration man of western Massachusetts, who bolted the Democratic State convention, lost in the first round of an anti-Wilson League platform, was defeated by the voters of the First Congressional District. Senator Daniel A. Martin and Thomas J. O'Connor of Haverhill, who had declared against the League and made it the issue of their campaign, defeated Ely handily.

In the eighth Congressional District, which also afforded a fair test of the League strength, Chairman Michael A. O'Leary of the Democratic State Committee was defeated by Edward W. Quinn and former Senator Edward A. Connelley, Jr., of Cambridge, openly attacking the League, who were elected over O'Leary. The vote:

Lawson Carries His Home Town
Mr. Lawson can point out to posterity that he carried his home town of Cohasset. He received there 192 against 14 for Lodge, his nearest competitor.

The most conspicuous Wood victory was in the Sixth District, home of Congressman Larkin, the Wood campaign manager for Massachusetts. Lieutenant Colonel William H. Root of Haverhill and George von L. Meyer of Hamilton defeated Ely handily. The vote:

"Big Four" Ticket Led by Lodge
Senator Lodge led the ticket, as was expected, and Speaker Duffell and former Senator Crane came down the stretch together. Mr. Thurston, admitting himself to be the "weak man" of the ticket, was not sufficiently weak to be overthrown by either Mr. Thurston or Mr. Duffell. That Prohibition outstripped the War Governor was in itself a sensation. The reported "Hoover strength" is now believed by Mr. McCall's friends to have been a weak-ness rather than an asset.

Wood Men Lose in Fuller's District
Fred P. Greenwood of Everett and George A. Miles of Somerville, the Wood-backed candidates in Congressmen Fuller's Sixth District, fell before Mayor Eldridge of Somerville and former Mayor Vassett of Everett, the unpledged duo. In the Twelfth District, former Postmaster Frank H. Bates of Framingham went under and in the First District, J. Arthur Bates of Pittsfield, pledged to the League, ran up against an avalanche of "unpledged" votes.

At Large, Lloyd Led.
Lloyd led the ticket, as was expected, and Speaker Duffell and former Senator Crane came down the stretch together. Mr. Thurston, admitting himself to be the "weak man" of the ticket, was not sufficiently weak to be overthrown by either Mr. Thurston or Mr. Duffell. Senator David I. Walsh, knighted in the Bay State Democratic, offering himself to the people on the record at Washington in opposition to the Wilson League, headed his own ticket with a lead of over 2000 votes.

Former District Attorney Joseph H. Ely of Westfield, the administration man of western Massachusetts, who bolted the Democratic State convention, lost in the first round of an anti-Wilson League platform, was defeated by the voters of the First Congressional District.

Senator Daniel A. Martin and Thomas J. O'Connor of Haverhill, who had declared against the League and made it the issue of their campaign, defeated Ely handily.

In the eighth Congressional District, which also afforded a fair test of the League strength, Chairman Michael A. O'Leary of the Democratic State Committee was defeated by Edward W. Quinn and former Senator Edward A. Connelley, Jr., of Cambridge, openly attacking the League, who were elected over O'Leary. The vote:

Lloyd led the ticket, as was expected, and Speaker Duffell and former Senator Crane came down the stretch together. Mr. Thurston, admitting himself to be the "weak man" of the ticket, was not sufficiently weak to be overthrown by either Mr. Thurston or Mr. Duffell. That Prohibition outstripped the War Governor was in itself a sensation. The reported "Hoover strength" is now believed by Mr. McCall's friends to have been a weak-ness rather than an asset.

SCIENTISTS FAIL TO AGREE

Members Sought Pledge That Monday's Meeting Could Be Held in Peace

An attempt today on the part of former Governor John L. Bates, counsel for the directors of the Christian Science church, and Attorney Edwin A. Krauthoff, former counsel for the directors, to compromise on Krauthoff's petition for an injunction to restrain the directors from interfering with a meeting next Monday at the Copple-Plaza, failed.

Judge Pierce had suggested that the two sides get together and agree upon a form of letter to be sent out to the Christian Science field after counsel Bates had agreed to a stipulation in which the directors agreed not to interfere with the meeting.

Krauthoff said that last Saturday in Washington Judge Clifford B. Smith, confidential man for the directors, had threatened excommunication to any member of the church who supported the Krauthoff petition. Counsel Bates indignantly denied this charge.

Prior to this Mr. Bates had accused Krauthoff of going to Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia and calling meetings of scientists in those cities representing himself as being counsel for the directors.

"I can't tell you what he has done right to ask for an injunction," he said.

Krauthoff denied this and demanded that the court strike out the remarks of Judge Pierce allowed the record to stand.

Charges Graft in U. S. by French Mission

Paris, April 25.—Sensational charges of extravagance have been made by Stephen Laisant, the famous publicist, against the French mission to Mexico.

Writing in the Matin, Laisant asserts there still remains in New York, in lavishly outfitted offices, a service that is costing France $10,000 a month. "This office employs 200 persons," he affirms, "who draw each not less than $15 per day. The rest of the office they occupy in $4,000 per month."

"And the sole work they did in the month of February was to express, for $600, 3,000 postal packages containing each a booklet entitled 'The Life of Clemenceau.'" ing provided it did not interfere with the work of the church.

Upon failure to agree, the hearing was adjourned.

$70,908 FOR FIRE MOTORS

Mayor Authorizes Purchase of Seven Pieces Without Asking for Bids

Authority was granted by Mayor Peter D. Jacoby to purchasing agent George J. Cronin to purchase without advertising or competitive bidding, seven pieces of motor apparatus from the American La France Fire Engine Company at a cost of $70,908.

Charges that this company had a monopoly in the sale of fire apparatus to the city of Boston were answered today at the Mayor's office by the statement that the apparatus of this company was selected early in the administration after investigation by a trio of experts including the purchasing officer of the Finance Commission.

The apparatus which is to be purchased will advance $200 each on May 1, according to representatives of the company. It consists of two 6-cylinder motor tender trucks at $15,154 each; one aerial ladder truck, motor 6-cylinder, at $14,494; one 1,000-gallon motor combination pump and hose car, 6-cylinder, at $12,652; one 750-gallon motor combination pump and hose car, 6-cylinder, with privilege of purchasing another at same price, $11,551; and two 6-cylinder combination motor hose and chemical cars with privilege of purchasing another at same price, for $3,290 each.

How Ladies Improve Looks!

Many ladies old and young suffer a round of their faces and their necks and many are so full of wrinkles and blotches that they are ashamed to show the sight of which a vain attempt to conceal the signs of age and ugliness is no one but themselves and really excite the eyes of others.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Advertisement.

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, after eating to a certain amount, by serious stomach cramps. Food ferments and sour, creating the gas and wind which cause the full, bloated feeling and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

DISLIKE TERM OF 'BRITISHERS'

Canadians Denounce History Which Designates Dominion Troops as Englishmen

Publishers of Myers General History, which is in use in the New Brunswick, Canada, schools as a text book, and against which the Board of Education of that city is alleged to have objected, today declared that credit was given America for winning the war "today" and that the author, a Canadian, wrote as "Britishers" on the grounds that they were part of the British Empire.

An attack of the book concerned the reference made to the United States part in the war had nothing whatever to do with the controversy which, as asserted, was started by an anti-government paper in New Brunswick. "Canadian objected to the supplement added to the history because of inadequate reference to Canada," he said.

The supplement dealt with the world war, Professor Philip Van Ness Myers, author of the history, classified all Canadian troops as British troops, which did not meet with the approval of some Canadians. His point of view was that Canada being part of Great Britain, and having representation in the war, came under the designation of British troops.

"Professor Myers' home is at No. 122 Linden street, College Hill, Ohio. He was decorated with the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by King Albert when the latter was in this country. The letter announcing this decoration states that it was given to him because of his work in the war.

The supplement added to the book is alleged to have been made in a captioned chapter, "The World War (1914-1918). The reference to the United States in the supplemental chapter is in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania May 7, 1915, which reads: "Early in 1915 the German government announced that every merchant vessel of the Allies entering the designated zone around the British Isles would be sunk without warning. . . . Finally the British steamer Lusitania, with crew and passengers numbering about 2,000, was torpedoed near the Irish coast without warning more than a thousand persons, among them many women and little children, were drowned.

"The United States government demanded of the German government a cessation of the act and assurances that the operations of its submarines would in the future conform to the requirements of international law."

Tenor Active Worker for Irish Loan

EMMET O'TOOLE

American army by this time had been so greatly augmented that the superiority in numbers was on the side of the Allies.

"The tide of battle turned. A great counter offensive was launched. The Germans were buried back across the Marne."

It is the last paragraph in the supplementary history, it is asserted, that caused the Canadians to remark that the United States was given the credit for winning the war. The phrase, "The tide of battle turned," made it appear, according to Canadians, that the United States won the war.

All through the supplement no mention is made of the part the Canadian took in the war.

Perverting U. S. History. Mcweeney Tells Confession

Edward J. Mcweeney has written to Governor Coolidge, giving him copies of correspondence with Smith, Maine Commissioner of Education, relative to an effort to "correct" the history of the United States through a proposed revision of school text-books. In his letter Mr. Mcweeney refers to the "veiled and patronizing assumption of American inferiority and patriotism. All this is done in a manner so subtle that only by considering the demonstrated facts of the full story could be partially approximated."

The full story of the letter has been sent to Mr. Mcweeney to Congressmen, Massachusetts legislators, Governors of other States and school authorities.

SAYS SINN FEIN RULES ERIN

Ermet O'Toole, Galway Tenor, Claims Principal Offices Held by Republicans

"No matter what the British say Ireland is to all intents and purposes a functioning republic today," declares Ermet O'Toole, the young Galway tenor who works in the late drive for the Irish bond issue has won him the gratitude of the Irish leaders all over America.

"It's only a few months since I left Ireland," says Mr. O'Toole, "and knowing conditions as I do, it is very amusing to read the reports coming out of that unfortunate country through British sources."

Now here are the facts. The Sinn Fein controls almost every office in Ireland, including nearly all the members of Parliament. England appoints the judges and the Lord Lieutenant and the military force are under his command.

All the present members of the Irish government of Ireland is part of the free Irish Republic. It ignores the presence of British officials in the island, takes orders from the Republican Parliament, composed of men legally elected to represent Ireland at Westminster.

"General French, the military commander, is shut up in Dublin Castle. His soldiers go about the country making arrests in violation of the law of the land. They are the criminals, not the Sinn Fein, who are careful to do everything legally. The law says you cannot arrest a man in Ireland without a warrant any more than you can in England. French breaks this law constantly."

Mr. O'Toole was an active member of the Volunteers in Galway and the Sinn Fein, and left Ireland because the British authorities prevented him from singing "The Soldier Song" in Galway Town Hall.

IRISH DEMONSTRATION PLANNED FOR COMMON

Irish and kindred societies will take part in the demonstration on Boston Common under the direction of the Central Council of United Irish County Associations on some Sunday afternoon soon. It is feared that at least 7,000 men and women will attend and vote on a resolution on holding a protest against the indignities inflicted by the British military on the people of Ireland. Tentative plans for the meeting include the presence of United States Senator David I. Walsh and two other members of that body and a possible parade.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us today

- (1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
- (2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
- (3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
- (4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
- (5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

The Public Health Service
Should Not Farm Out
Wounded Soldiers

It does not seem possible, but yet the rumor persists in authoritative circles that the wounded soldiers at Parker Hill hospital are soon to be "farmed out" by the United States Public Health Service.

The Parker Hill plant consists of the Robert Bent Brigham and the Elks hospitals. There is an understanding between the Brigham trustees and the health service officials, it is charged, to the effect that, when the Brigham reverts to private control on July first, the Elks institution is to be turned over to the trustees under an arrangement that would make of the great human repair shop nothing more than an out-patient department of the hospital.

America's generous fraternal order invested a million dollars in rehabilitation projects for sick and disabled soldiers, sailors and marines in order to help the government do a thorough job.

To give over the care of these wounded boys to the staff of a private hospital, organized and specifically chartered by the State, not for reconstruction purposes, but for the treatment of hopeless, incurable chronic disease, was not within the vision of the Elks.

Under army management, as United States General Hospital No. 10, Parker Hill had a glorious reputation. It nobly fulfilled the ideals of the Elks. Under the Public Health Service that reputation has suffered, and it has taken nearly a year to put the house on the hill in order again and producing good results.

Why disarrange it? That is just what a farming-out proposition means. It means only vague, general supervision instead of direct responsibility by the Public Health Service. That is not what the government promised.

And it smacks too much of charity on a contract basis. It looks as if the government no longer cared for its wounded wards and was anxious to get them off its hands.

It means the loss of war-experienced local physicians and surgeons who are now acting as special consultants and doing much of the special work; substituting in their places other doctors, undoubtedly good, but perhaps untried and with no particular interest in this group of New England boys.

It is true that the Brigham hospital must be returned to its trustees. But there is no reason apparent why the Public Health Service cannot run the Elks hospital. The present staff personnel is deeply interested in its work for the young veterans and, it is safe to assume, is not eager for release, so, therefore, has had nothing to do with the new scheme of farming out.

And if more doctors are needed for this particular place the Public Health Service can get plenty of them from among former members of the army medical corps who are more interested in the men than in the job.

There is no reason why the government cannot and should not maintain a real service, for the wounded and sick who were the khaki or the blue, in the Elks hospital. It could be made an independent unit at no great expense.

If this is done the Public Health Service will be carrying out the duty with which the government has charged it and for which the people will hold it accountable. It will be doing its job and not ducking it. And it will receive praise for a humane program rather than condemnation for a commercial one.

If this is not done it will be a calamity.

The grand lodge officers of the Elks should study carefully any such proposition as outlined. We also suggest that the State department of the American Legion look at its merits. Our senators and congressmen should request an explanation of leases or contracts looking to such an arrangement.

It is much easier to prevent than to undo. And it is particularly important to move quickly in this case as the arrangement proposed, it is understood, involves a five-year contract.

While at It Why Not Ask for Referendum Worth While?

A number of commercial organizations have asked for a referendum among chambers of commerce of the United States on whether employees of public utilities should be permitted to interrupt service by strikes.

The declared purpose is "to promote legislation to protect the public."

Commercial organizations are an influential part of the public, but they do not constitute all of the public and they very often misinterpret public sentiment.

Such a referendum, to be convincing, should be addressed to all of the public, for all of the public is affected.

And since protection of the public is the objective, the public might well also be asked if it is content to let public utilities remain under private ownership, thus insuring continual maneuvering by expertly organized special interests to take advantage of the public.

Striking is not confined to "employees of public utilities." Judging from New York's experience with the Traction Trust, it seems to be the principal business of some utility managements, with politicians as strike leaders.

More Truth Than Poetry

At the Crossways

By S. E. KISER

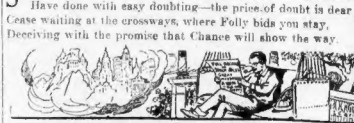

START bravely in the morning for somewhere out ahead;
The weather may be misty, but toss away your dread;
Cease waiting at the crossways, delayed by fear or doubt;
Choose which way you will travel and then be starting out.

THE many who get nowhere wait at the parting ways;
"Tomorrow," they keep saying, while wasting precious days,
They never lack excuses for failing to begin;
They wait and wish for triumphs that they will never win.

START fearlessly this morning upon your chosen course,
Tear loose from indecision, give don't a quick divorce;
Heed not when Polly calls you, be deaf to Pleasure's call,
For he who stays in listen will never start at all.

BEWARE of tempting byways that seem to lead from care
And wind through peaceful valleys where all the days are fair;
Leave them for timid people, who may be lured aside,
To waste their days in wishing, their wishes all denied.

START hopefully this morning, your purpose firm and clear;
Have done with easy doubting—the price of doubt is dear;
Cease waiting at the crossways, where Polly bids you stay,
Deceiving with the promise that Chance will show the way.

WHY HUNT FOR TROUBLE?

Paderewski has been banished from Poland and D'Annunzio is afraid to go back to Italy. Genius should stick to its own job.

THE BARE TRUTH

"The ladies are to wear open-work stockings this season, and, if you may judge by the samples that are exhibited, there will be much more open than work."

Here lies Sir Rags: he gave his all
For one more Jag—wood alcohol.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.:
SOME YEARS AGO,
WHEN LIFE WAS YOUNG
AND FULL OF HOPE,
I HAD DREAMS,
THAT ON DAYS TO BE
I MIGHT AND DO,
TO A FRIENDLY WORLD,
A SONG OF RHYME,
BUT YEARS HAVE PASSED,
AND AS DAMNED WILL,
I CAST MY LOT,
WITH THE MAN I LOVE,
AND BABIES CAME,
AND THE DAYS WENT BY,
AND DAY BY DAY,
I WATCH THE STEPS
OF THE TEDDING BABES,
THAT HAVE COME TO ME,
AND DAY BY DAY,
I GIVE TO THEM,
THE BEST OF MYSELF,
AND MY STEPS GROW SLOW,
AND MY STRENGTH GROWS FEEB,
AND NOW CLOVES TORTH,
IN THE STURDY LIMBS,
OF MY LITTLE ONE,
AND MY RONES HAVE FLED,
AND NOW THEY BLONN,
IN THE CHECKS OF MY BABES,
BUT THE OLD DREAM,
TO SOME DAY WRITE,
HAS NEVER DIED,
AND I SAY TO YOU,
DEAR K. C. B.,
IT SEEMS AS THOUGH
THAT IT MUST BE,
THAT IN ORDER TO REAR,
THOSE WHOM GOD GIVE,
SO MANY THERE ARE,

IN THIS land of wealth,
MUST TASTE OF TOLL,
AND WIELD A BROOM,
WHEN THE SOUL CRIES OUT,
TO BEING A SONG,
OR WRITE A RHYME,
FOR MEN TO READ,
AND THE HAND THAT ROCKS,
THE CRADLE SMALL,
HAS NO TIME TO YIELD,
THE PEN AT ALL,
AND THE DREAMING MOTHER,
TO REAR HER BROOD,
MUST CRUCIFY SELF,
AND HER OWN DEARS,
AND THE DING THAT COUNTS,
IS NOT IN THE STITCH,
BUT GLOWS WITHIN,
THAT THE COST OF HELP,
AND THE NEED TO SAVE,
TO THE ULTIMOST CENT,
AND THE SONGS WOULD SING,
ARE FOREVER UNBORN,
BUT THE HOPE SPRINGS UP,
THAT THE WORDS I WOULD WRITE,
MAY BE WRITTEN BY MY SON,
AND THE SONGS I MIGHT SING,
MAY BE BETTER SONG,
BY MY BLUE-EYED LASS,

I am a business man, and will be subject to the coming tax, so as to help pay some ex-soldier's tax, but will, if justice is not done, look out for trouble in a year or two.

Noble Stand

Editor Boston American:

It pleased me very much to read the remarks of O. P. Thomas of Brockton in your issue of April 21, 1920, and in addition would say that William Randolph Hearst and Senator Johnson are not only deserving of cheers but also of votes for the noble stand they have taken in our present crisis. As a Democrat, for the last twenty-five years, and a believer in the true American doctrine, I might say that I would be a lone up to the neck in the man to vote for if both were candidates.

THE BIG ASSET

By Garrett P. Serviss

A CURIOUSLY interesting experiment has been tried, with what, I think, is an unexpected result, at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. The object of the experiment was to determine "whether the ultimate return to the body from unpalatable food is different from that of the same food palatably served."

In other words, in food that tastes good more nourishing than the same food so prepared that it tastes bad?

It seems to have been suspected that "psychic stimuli," i. e., good cheer, induced by pleasing the appetite, might react upon the digestive functions to such a degree that more benefit from the food eaten would be derived if the food was swallowed eagerly and pleasantly than if it was taken with disgust and merely to stave off hunger.

The result seems to have practically disproved the supposed psychic influence. Here is the statement made by the supervisors of the experiment:

"The differences in utilization of the palatable and unpalatable foods were quite small, as were the variations in the nitrogen retention. This short test indicates that flavor is not the outstanding dietic factor, that some persons would have us believe. If the stomach and intestine can only be emptied into making the proper effort, the unpalatable condition can be digested just about as satisfactorily as can the food mixture which makes a stronger appeal."

If the things we eat have proper food value we need not worry unduly as to their digestion, absorption and utilization by the normal body."

And further they say: "This experiment simply shows how ineffectual we can be to the normal stomach and get away with it, but does not necessarily prove this to be the wisest policy."

Probably nobody would regard it as a wise policy, or even a tolerable one, for enjoyment of good things to eat and drink, if these within moderate limits, is certainly one of the legitimate pleasures of life on this fur-travelled ball of earth. But there is another point of view.

Overeating is one of the evils besetting man from which it is not easy for him to escape through his own will. It is useless to go over the well-known arguments on this subject. Every man must learn for himself the fact that he is probably eating twice as much food as what would be for him the optimum amount. Some are fortunate enough to learn that soon before their appetites have led them beyond the verge of recovery, but not so the majority.

Letters to the Editor

Fair Play for Regulars

Editor Boston American:

I understand that the proposed bill giving to ex-soldiers of the World War $1 a day eliminates all regular army enlisted men, the ones who, most everyone knows who has been across, were the first American soldiers in action, the first across, had the most wounded and killed in proportion to the size of regular army as against that of the National Army and National Guard. This is not a case of who did more or less. This is a case of justice to the men of the regular army who have sacrificed themselves in the late war but the public has heard little about them because the regular army has received very little publicity.

I am a business man, and will be subject to the coming tax, so as to help pay some ex-soldier's tax, but will, if justice is not done, look out for trouble in a year or two.

Interesting "Good Reason"
Pigmy Hippopotamus
Germany Can Pay
Sugar, Meat, Bread,
Potatoes
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

There's another good reason, it seems, for holding back the bonus from soldiers.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, deeply agitated, says: "Half a million babies in the South, who would probably receive five or six hundred dollars each, would immediately quit work until the money was spent."

Also, labor in the North would be demoralized by getting so much money, say the patriotic business men.

The profiteer can get anything from a million up to a hundred millions, without any particular protest from the United States Chamber of Commerce. But when you talk about giving five hundred dollars to each of the soldiers that quit their job to work for a dollar a day, you immediately threaten the safety of the nation.

Did you hear about the great pigmy hippopotamus, first one born in captivity, now dead, after struggling against death for thirty hours?

It looked like a small baby hippopotamus or like a big baby pig. During its short life, the thirty hours two distinguished doctors sat beside it, doing all that science could to keep it alive, in vain.

While the hippopotamus baby was breathing its last, thousands of human babies of about the same age were doing the same thing, breathing their last. As a rule, they didn't have two doctors sitting by each baby. Probably not one baby was divided among ten doctors.

If the pigmy hippopotamus baby in the mysterious world to come meets the human babies that left the world when he did, he will have a right to put on airs.

The German indemnity, ninety billions of marks, seems to have been settled on a sound basis of accepting the amount that Germany probably can pay.

Three billion marks every year, for thirty years, will not be beyond the paying power of Germany once she gets back to producing.

The end of militarism under the German republic will keep at work at least half a million young men in their prime that ordinarily would be wasting time producing nothing in the armaments industry.

The wealth produced by those half million men, transferred from the military life into a productive life, will go a long way toward paying the annual indemnity.

Every man personally interested in profiteering, extortion through monopoly, increasing the cost of living through combining the forces of the extraordinary political campaign of Miriam W. Johnson, and intensely anxious that he should be defeated. That fact is forestall you.

With organized capital so strong against him, that is to say, the dishonest kind of organized capital for organization is not in itself dishonest, the remarkable man that Johnson should have been able to make any showing at all, it takes strength to conquer naïf politicians, and servile newspapers.

President Wilson returning to politics might well concentrate his mind on the national sugar barrel.

Sugar sold by the manufacturers at fourteen cents is related by Prof. Seligman to be twenty-five cents beyond reach and the crowd will get beyond control. Those that exploit the country, the profiteering should be willing to let the people have sugar, meat, potatoes and bread, since the people are willing, apparently, to let them take everything else.

The important thing in this country, for those that have anything to lose, is to keep the people as nearly as possible in a contented frame of mind. If that is not done, look out for trouble in a year or two.

Sugar, flour, meat, bread, potatoes. Keep those things within reach of the crowd and the crowd will remain fairly peaceful. Let them get beyond reach and the crowd will get beyond control. Those that exploit the country, the profiteering should be willing to let the people have sugar, meat, potatoes and bread, since the people are willing, apparently, to let them take everything else.

P. S.—A young man, married, to whom this is dictated, interrupts to say that he buys potatoes at the rate of five pounds for forty-seven cents. That is not a healthy concern, especially after the potatoes are peeled, and one-quarter of the weight peeled away.

Let the people eat, at least, and let the nation interest itself in the farmers. They will soon save this year, out food production.
